

SEVEN MORE WORKING DAYS UNTIL COUNT

fragility is simply a bad case of cold feet and there are some in this list of candidates who have been showing symptoms of this disease. However, there are others who are immune from this deadly epidemic. Those who are immune are those who are walking after subscriptions to the newspapers and absolutely refusing to become inoculated. Those having the poisonous germs in their system can get rid of them by getting out in the fresh air and going after subscriptions, which is the only cure and the only way to win the car or any other fine prizes.

There are several people who profess to be friends of the differ-

SPECIAL PROPOSITION FOR FOURTEEN DAYS ONLY

Beginning with Friday, March 30, and lasting until Thursday, April 12, (just fourteen days), the candidate will be allowed to take NEW subscriptions only to the Union-Herald and Watchman at the rate of seven months for $1.00; the Daily Herald, by mail, four months for $1.00; also the Daily Herald, by carrier, ten weeks for $1.00; and we will allow 1,000 votes for every subscription of that class. For a string of twenty-five $1.00 subscriptions DOUBLE votes will be given; in other words, if you get twenty-five NEW subscriptions for $1.00 each, 2,000 VOTES will be allowed for each subscription. A string of FIFTY subscriptions for $1.00 each would mean a total of 100,000 regular votes also a bonus ballot calling for 50,000 extra votes will be given. This is a mighty attractive proposition for both candidate and subscriber and it is a safe bet that EVERY candidate will GET BUSY at once. This offer will not interfere with the regular vote offer allowed for longer term subscriptions, both new and old, given each week. Get busy on both offers.

ent candidates who tell them they hope they will win, how interested they are and how hard they are pulling for them, etc. Such talk sounds good in the parlor but the vital question is: "How bad do you want to see them win?" If you wish to see your favorite candidate land the prize (and you are telling them you do) do you want to see them win a year's subscription's worth? Don't be a piker, come across with the necessary subscription and help them to win.

$20 in subscriptions will mean 10,000 extra votes.

$40 in subscriptions will mean 35,000 extra votes.

$70 in subscriptions will mean 65,000 extra votes.

$80 in subscriptions will mean 100,000 extra votes.

$100 in subscriptions will mean 150,000 extra votes.

$125 in subscriptions will mean 225,000 extra votes.

$150 in subscriptions will mean 300,000 extra votes.

$175 in subscriptions will mean 375,000 extra votes.

$200 in subscriptions will mean 425,000 extra votes.

$225 in subscriptions will mean 500,000 extra votes.

$250 in subscriptions will mean 575,000 extra votes.

$275 in subscriptions will mean 650,000 extra votes.

$300 in subscriptions will mean 750,000 extra votes.

REMEMBER, this offer is either new or old subscriptions and must be turned in accordingly. This offer lasts until the last day of the campaign, April 11. Don't fail to land the big bonus.

ers and heating of the Everts school building, and retired owing to ill health in 1918.

He also was janitor of the building during that time, and knew nearly every pupil who attended the school in his long term of service, which he filled very capably.

To the children who attended "Old Everts" he was their friend and advisor. They even confided their childhood troubles to him; many a little row between them being settled amicably by the good natured janitor, and at the holiday season he was always remembered by the children, who never forgot the many little kindnesses he showed them. He was the grand old man of Everts High school building. Even after they graduated and came back from college where they matriculated, he was not forgotten.

He lived in their thoughts, and they would call on old John Poll, the friend of their youth. Several benefits were given in his honor by the graduates of the school building in which he served as engineer and janitor for four decades.

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1928.

CIRCLING the CIRCLE

—There will be Good Friday services at the Methodist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

—Circleville school children and teachers are having a brief holiday on Good Friday. Classes will be resumed however on Monday morning.

—Mrs. Maude Foster, who with her mother, Mrs. Donnelly, recently moved into the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth Renick on East Union street, has come to Circleville from Seville, O., to make her home.

—The trouble with the fire alarm bell system, that caused the bell to ring at intervals on Friday, has not been located. The wires are crossed some place.

—The cost of the dam to be erected in Boulder Canyon on the Colorado river as provided in the Swing bill reported to the House March 15 is estimated at approximately $41,000,000.

—The appointment of a receiver, a full accounting, and the uniting as defendants of all parties who are ranching foxes at Scioto Silver Fox Ranch conducted just north of Chillicothe by Arthur L. Turnipseed, is asked for, in a suit filed Friday at Chillicothe by Walter W. Bulger, representing William Segbers, W. L. Blackburn, W. Earl and Amanda Mullin against Turnipseed and The Scioto Valley Silver Fox Ranch, Incorporated.

—More than 50 nations of the world will gather in Los Angeles for the tenth World's Sunday School convention to be held on July 11-18, 1928.

Already 300 Japanese delegates have engaged passage. After the convention 60 of these Japanese citizens with credentials from the Chamber of Commerce of Tokyo are to visit Ohio and be entertained by The Ohio Council of Religious Education enroute across the country.

Ohio delegates are to travel in special train stopping enroute going and returning at the scenic places of the west so says Arthur T. Arnold of Columbus, general secretary of The Ohio Council of Religious Education who is planning the tour. The train will leave on June 30th, taking 30 days for the trip.

An outstanding group of Ohio men and women including those who have attended former conventions are already enrolled. Each county in Ohio is entitled to representatives. The convention promises to be the greatest ever held.

PHILLIPS' BARN

$3,000 FIRE LOSS

A barn on the D. E. Phillips farm near Woodlyn, was discovered on fire by the wife of the tenant J. W. Adams, about six o'clock Thursday evening. She gave the alarm, and Mr. Adams, assisted by neighbors, succeeded in saving his live stock, and an automobile, which was stored in a shed close to the barn.

The heat of the fire was so intense that no one could enter, and little of value was saved. The tongues of fire seemed to be everywhere over the barn when it was discovered, and the big building was soon destroyed, together with its contents.

Stored in the barn were 220 bushels of corn, three to four tons of hay, a double disc cultivator and a drill. A calf that was forgotten in the excitement, was burned to death.

Mr. Adams carried $750 insurance on the contents, the owner of the barn, Denny Phillips of this city, carried $1,500 insurance on the barn in the T. P. Brown agency of this city.

The barn was a substantially built frame building, and was erected by Thomas Rector some years ago. The structure today would cost perhaps in the neighborhood of $3,000 to build, as it was a large commodious building.

BANS WIDOWS' WEEDS

LONDON, April 6 — (UP) — "My wife shall not disfigure herself," said a widow here.

John Henry Wilcox, of Minehead, Somerset, who died last November, left explicit instructions in his will that his wife should not don "what are known as 'widow's weeds,'" and that no flowers should be used at his funeral. He left an estate valued at $50,000, entirely his widow.

COOLIDGE MAY ATTEND RITES FOR FINANCIER

Many Notables Pay Their Respects at Bier of Chauncey Mitchell Depew.

NEW YORK, April 6 — (INS) — Elaborate preparations are being made today for the funeral of Chauncey Mitchell Depew, distinguished statesman, financial and railroad executive who died at his home here early yesterday in his 94th year.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Thomas' church on Fifth avenue. Burial will be tomorrow afternoon at Peekskill, N. Y., the birthplace of Mr. Depew and the home of his youth.

Coolidge May Attend
If his duties will permit, President Coolidge hopes to come here from Washington for the funeral. Numerous notables throughout the east will attend the services. Messages of condolence from hundreds of others, who will be unable to be present continued to reach Mr. Depew at his home here today.

Fifty members of the Union League club, including Elihu Root, will go to the church in a body. Mr. Depew was the third oldest member of the club, in duration of membership.

Bishop William T. Manning, Bishop Ernest M. Stires and the Rev. Rolin H. Brooks will officiate at the religious rites at St. Thomas' church tomorrow. The Boy choir of the church will sing.

The body will be taken to Peekskill by automobile. Motorcycle squads from New York City and towns in Westchester county will escort the funeral cortege, succeeding each other until the hill-side cemetery is reached.

Flags At Half Mast
By order of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the flags of New York state's public buildings were at half mast today, as were the flags on all the buildings in twelve states of the New York Central railroad. Mr. Depew had served the railroad for 62 years as counsel, president and chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. Depew's successor as chairman of the railroad board is expected to be chosen at the regular meeting of the directors next Wednesday.

Sixteen hundred passenger and freight trains of the New York Central and subsidiary systems may be halted for 30 seconds tomorrow morning when the funeral cortege starts from Peekskill. It was reported today that such an order might be put into effect, and that other roads might follow the example of the Central.

JEROME SMITH, JR. TAKEN BY DEATH

Jerome Smith Jr., son of Mrs. Lillian Barnes, died at the home of his mother, 33 Lincoln street, Columbus, Wednesday morning, aged 19 years. The deceased was a student and died of complications.

Besides his mother, three sisters and three brothers survive. They are Miss Mary Smith, Mrs. Cora Mowery, and Mrs. Mable Shields, Harry, Frank and Fred Smith.

The funeral services were held at the Fourth avenue Church of Christ, Friday morning at ten o'clock. Rev. T. L. Lowe officiated. The remains were brought to this city and interred in Forest cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Seall, of this city, attended the funeral of the deceased who was their cousin. The Smith family formerly resided in this city.

LOCKER IS NAMED

COLUMBUS, O. April 6 — (INS) — Appointment by Governor Vic Donahey of Lieut. Gov. Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrat, as state director of commerce, succeeding Attorney Cyrus Locher Cleveland, also a Democrat, was announced today. Locher's appointment as U. S. senator was announced by the governor late yesterday.

Leon Trotsky, exiled war minister of Russia, is reported to have been wounded by a member of the "Young Communists" and to "be lying at death's door."

HOPE TO CLEAN SCIOTO RIVER OF POLLUTION

Group of Circleville Citizens to Consult With State Board Today.

Thomas F. Jeffries, R. L. Brehmer, Paul E. Adkins, Frank Lynch and T. O. Gilliland, are in Columbus this Friday afternoon for the purpose of a conference with officials of the State Board of Health.

Contamination of the water of the Scioto river by Columbus sewage must be stopped, the City of Circleville has decided, or at least abated in the near future and the above well known citizens are going after the "lion in his den" early this spring in order that some relief may be obtained before the hot summer months come, when the nuisance is at its height.

The foul, disease-laden, odoriferous waters of the formerly beautiful Scioto should be returned to its former state of health, officials here believe, by proper action of the State Health officials forcing the City of Columbus to properly treat its sewage before allowing it to flow into the river's waters.

Consider Action Now

Plans for eliminating sewage pollution by improvements in sewer lines and the Main Street Pumping Station estimated to cost $500,000 were discussed Thursday at a conference between Mayor Thomas, Service Director Duffy, Consulting Engineer John H. Gregory and City Engineer R. H. Simpson, at Columbus.

Construction of new intercepting sewers in the East-side and either enlargement or rebuilding of the Main Street Pumping Station is contemplated.

It is planned to take up the plans with officials of the State Board of Health probably Saturday. Officials of the State Board some time ago ordered the city to remove all sewage pollution in the creek.

FINN STILL AHEAD

CRICKET STAR DIES

LONDON, April 6 — (UP) — Roy Kilner, 37, one of the best known cricket players in England, died today in a London hospital from encephalitis contracted while coaching in India last winter.

Circleville Has Chance To Build New $60,000 Hospital Of Health.

Not many individuals would turn down an inheritance of $30,000.

But the City of Circleville has been doing that since 1927 when Frank Berger, a well known retired farmer, living on North Court Street in Circleville, died and left the residue of his estate, after other beneficiaries had received their inheritance, to the City of Circleville provided a like amount was raised, the total to be used for a hospital to be known as the Frank Berger hospital.

This makes the third time this city has had a chance to secure a new hospital since 1914. Now this new chance should not be forgotten.

Frank Berger's gift to the city is $30,000, in round numbers. If the city should give a like amount, which it must or lose the inheritance, that means this city will have a hospital to take care of its sick and injured without having to go to Columbus for aid.

The Home and Hospital here is not adequate for the needs of the sick people of Circleville and Pickaway county, especially those who are too poor to afford to go to a Columbus hospital for treatment or surgical work.

That means but one thing—if Circleville can't take care of its people and they cannot afford to go to Columbus or some other city, they must suffer and eventually die.

Frank Berger knew this work of philanthropy should be promulgated, and he showed his willingness by leaving a large sum of money to start it on. A $60,000 hospital would be a great help. Later on, this might encourage other endowments that would result in the years to come, of this city having a public institution—a needed institution—that it can be proud of.

Circleville needs several things, one a boulevard lighting system, another the ridding of the Scioto river of stream pollution, a third, an adequate system of collecting garbage, but above these a new hospital.

Bring two things to Circleville this year, members of council, a new hospital and an extensive boulevard lighting system, and Circleville has taken a step forward with other progressive cities its size in the state.

5,000 Police To Guard Polls At Chicago Voting

CHICAGO, April 6 — (INS) — Five thousand police, five-sixths of the city's entire force, will guard Chicago's polls in Illinois primary election next Tuesday, Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes announced today.

Police details, assigned to the city's 2,755 precincts from opening of the polls until closing, will be augmented by several thousand representatives of County Judge Edmund Jarecki.

Commissioner Hughes said the normal detail of 35 detective squads would be reinforced by 65 special squads under Deputy Commissioner William E. O'Connor.

Several hundred special police also will be assigned to the election commissioners' office in charge of Judge Jarecki.

The announcement, outlining the most extensive primary poll guard in the history of Chicago, was accompanied by no comment from Commissioner Hughes.

His only statement was that "if there is to be any trouble, it probably will be in the battle over ward committeemen elections."

DIES IN SING SING

SING SING, N. Y., April 6 — (INS) — The Sing Sing prison cell which Frank (Dixie) Baldwin, 22, occupied for more than 15 months, was empty today. The negro was executed last night for the murder of John Dickinson, a farmer of Ovid, N. Y. Eleven-hour efforts to secure a stay of execution for Baldwin at Syracuse, N. Y., were unsuccessful.

FIGURES IN CHICAGO TURMOIL

Illicit rum rings are blamed for the recent outbreaks of bombings and shootings in Chicago. Dry agents sent there by Seymour Lowman (upper left), national prohibition chief, are accused of wounding a local officer. Accusations have been made for the bombings of the homes of Judge S. Swanson (lower left) and United States Attorney Charles S. Deneen (lower right). Mayor William H. Thompson (upper right) has ordered every resource for a quick clean-up.

Seven days is a mighty short time, and before you know it the time will be counted in hours and minutes until the close. Even though the time is short it is sufficient for any candidate to get out and win. There are always some sprinters in a race of this kind who make a wonderful showing at the start but who, as the race nears the finish, get troubled with tired feet and slow down until the steady workers pass them and leave them wondering how it all happened after the campaign is a matter of history.

You candidates wonder if you can win the big prizes offered in this great campaign. The answer depends solely upon your feet. The campaign manager is seriously considering the publication of a new book for the benefit of several candidates who seem to have slight symptoms of "cold feet."

The subject of his new book is to be "Hard Work, a Substitute for Cold Feet, or How to Cure an Aggravated Case of Pedal Frigidity."

For the benefit of those who do not understand the scientific terms in which this title is smothered, it is thus explained: "A case of pedal (Continued on Page Two)

LOSS OF THREE MILLIONS HITS REBUILT PLANT

One Woman Is Killed and Many Firemen Injured in Big Blaze.

HAVANA, CUBA, April — 6 — (UP) — The Belox refinery and tank farm of the Sinclair Oil company—recently rebuilt—was damaged by fire early today with a loss that may reach $3,000,000.

An explosion preceded the fire which could be felt all along beautiful Havana Harbor. Flames however, were confined to the Tank farm.

One woman was killed when her small house was destroyed and early reports said many firemen and volunteer fire fighters were injured in combatting the flames.

Explosion Occurs

The explosion occurred shortly after 9 p. m., last night.

The blast could be heard for miles and soon flames were shooting into the air many hundred feet. The entire tank farm seemed ablaze and all fire fighting apparatus from Havana was sent to the refinery, on the far side of Havana Harbor.

Many volunteers and soldiers were sent to aid the firemen.

One gasoline tank was shot into the harbor in many fragments and the blaze dotted all over that portion of the bay.

Destroyed Once Before

For almost four hours the firemen, soldiers, sailors and volunteers fought the blaze and finally brought it under control shortly after 1 a. m. At that time, however, the fire was still burning and there were indications it probably would not be extinguished completely for at least 24 hours. There was no way to check on the actual damage or the number of injured.

In was considered likely, however, that the woman was the only person killed, although some of the firemen injured were said to be in serious condition.

The refinery was destroyed in the cyclone of 1926 and reconstruction had just been completed at a cost of $3,000,000. It was considered probable today that the entire new plant had been destroyed.

WOMAN OFFICE HOLDER FACES FOUR FELONIES

Former Secretary of State Also Will Answer to Two Misdemeanors.

By PERCY B. SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
ALBANY, N. Y., April 6 — (UP) — The first woman chosen for a high elective office in the state of New York today was expected to be arraigned on grand jury indictments which charge her with four felonies and two misdemeanors while in office.

Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, was indicted on six counts by a grand jury late yesterday and it was indicated she would surrender today for arraignment. In event she does not surrender an order for her arrest will be given.

The counts on which Mrs. Knapp was indicted were kept secret pending arraignment but it was understood they included falsifying expense accounts; appropriations proceeds of the state for her own certification of the expense vouchers.

It took only eight hours for the grand jury to indict Mrs. Knapp. Deliberations started yesterday with Justice Stephen B. Callaghan of Brooklyn—placed in charge of the case by Governor Smith—presiding.

Woman Conquers Gibraltar With Currents' Help

CEUTA, MOROCCO, April 6 — (INS) — Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London's typist-swimmer, today holds the distinction of being the first swimmer to successfully navigate the Strait of Gibraltar.

Undaunted by six previous failures, the girl swimmer entered the water at Tarifa, Spain at 7:50 yesterday morning and reached the shore at Punta Leona, Spanish Morocco, at 9 o'clock last night.

Aided by favorable currents and moderately tempered water, the girl crossed the 27-mile stretch of water in 13 hours and 20 minutes.

Prior to her attempts to conquer the Gibraltar Strait, Miss Gleitz had successfully negotiated the English Channel. She swam the channel on Oct. 7, 1927, on her eighth attempt, and was the third woman to perform that feat.

"I prefer the Lucky Strike Cigarette to all others because of their unusual flavor. My pleasure is not marred by anxiety for my voice."

KING VIDOR,
Motion Picture Director

"While directing 'The Big Parade' I smoked 'Lucky Strikes.' It is wonderful to find a cigarette that insures you against throat irritation — a condition from which film directors are bound to suffer."

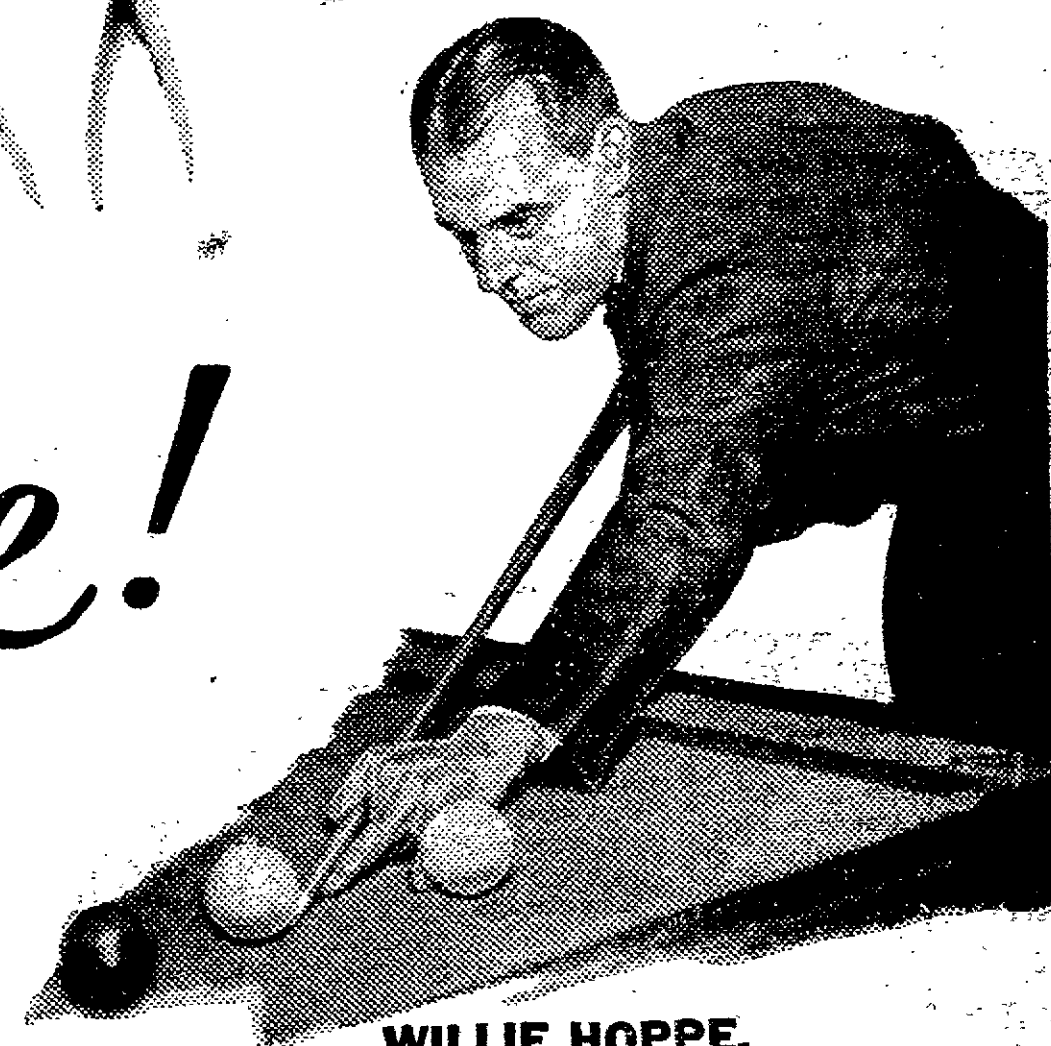

"ROXY",
of Broadcasting Fame

"There is nothing quite like a 'Lucky Strike' cigarette. It does not impair the voice, and gives the mental relaxation so essential to carry on."

They all agree!

Lucky Strikes give the greatest pleasure . . . mild and mellow . . . made of the choicest tobaccos . . . cream of the crop . . . properly aged . . . blended with great skill . . . an extra process . . . "IT'S TOASTED" . . . No harshness . . . not a bit of bite.

WILLIE HOPPE,
Champion Billiard Player

"The slightest cough or throat irritation might be fatal during a close match. On this account I prefer Luckies as a steady diet."

PAUL G. WANER,
Pittsburgh Pirates

"I am very fond of the excellent flavor and they keep my throat clear and do not affect my wind in the least."

frigidity is simply a bad case of cold feet and there are some in this list of candidates who have been showing symptoms of this disease. However, there are others who are immune from this dreadful epidemic. Those who are walking after subscriptions to the newspapers and absolutely refusing to become inoculated. Those having the poisonous germs in their system can get rid of them by getting out in the fresh air and going after subscriptions, which is the only cure and the only way to win the car or any other fine prizes.

There are several people who profess to be friends of the differ-

SPECIAL PROPOSITION FOR FOURTEEN DAYS ONLY

Beginning with Friday, March 30, and lasting until Thursday, April 12, (just fourteen days), the candidate will be allowed to take NEW subscriptions only to the Union-Herald and Watchman at the rate of seven months for $1.00; the Daily Herald, by mail, four months for $1.00 also the Daily Herald, by carrier, ten weeks for $1.00; and we will allow 1,000 votes for every subscription of that class. For a string of twenty-five $1.00 subscriptions DOUBLE votes will be given; in other words, if you get twenty-five NEW subscriptions for $1.00 each, 2,000 VOTES will be allowed for each subscription. A string of FIFTY subscriptions for $1.00 each would mean a total of 100,000 regular votes also a bonus ballot calling for 50,000 extra votes will be given. This is a mighty attractive proposition for both candidate and subscriber and it is a safe bet that EVERY candidate will GET BUSY at once. This offer will not interfere with the regular vote offer allowed for longer term subscriptions, both new and old, given each week. Get busy on both offers.

ent candidates who tell them they hope they will win, how interested they are and how hard they are pulling for them, etc. Such talk sounds good in the parlor but the vital question is: "How bad do you want to see them win?" If you wish to see your favorite candidate land the prize (and you are telling them you do) you want to see them win a year's subscription's worth? Don't be a piker, come across with the necessary subscription and help them to win.

$20 in subscriptions will mean 10,000 extra votes.
$40 in subscriptions will mean 35,000 extra votes.
$50 in subscriptions will mean 65,000 extra votes.
$80 in subscriptions will mean 100,000 extra votes.
$100 in subscriptions will mean 150,000 extra votes.
$125 in subscriptions will mean 225,000 extra votes.
$150 in subscriptions will mean 300,000 extra votes.
$175 in subscriptions will mean 375,000 extra votes.
$200 in subscriptions will mean 425,000 extra votes.
$225 in subscriptions will mean 500,000 extra votes.
$250 in subscriptions will mean 575,000 extra votes.
$275 in subscriptions will mean 650,000 extra votes.
$300 in subscriptions will mean 750,000 extra votes.

REMEMBER, this offer is for either new or old subscriptions and must be turned in accordingly. This offer lasts until the last day of the campaign, April 14. Don't fail to land the big bonus.

ers and heating of the Everts school building, and retired owing to ill health in 1918.

He also was janitor of the building during that time, and knew nearly every pupil who attended the school in his long term of service, which he filled very capably.

To the children who attended "Old Everts" he was their friend and advisor. They even confided their childhood troubles to him; many a little row between them being settled amicably by the good natured janitor, and at the holiday season he was always remembered by the children, who never forgot the many little kindnesses he showed them. He was the grand old man of Everts High school building. Even after they graduated and came back from college where they matriculated, he was not forgotten.

He lived in their thoughts, and they would call on old John Foll, friend of their youth.

Several benefits were given in his honor by the graduates of the school building in which he served as engineer and janitor for four decades.

MAKING STATUES LIVE

IN Honolulu there is a man named Manuel who is known to everyone as "the statue worshipper." Daily Manuel appears before the statue of Kamehameha, Hawaii's king of long ago, and does obeisance. He is waiting the day when the statue of the great leader will step down from its pedestal and move across the street into the palace. On that day Manuel is going to be ready to serve.

It is rather a weary business, waiting for a statue to come to life. Manuel has our sympathy. Indeed, we in America ought to feel some kinship with him. In our own way, we too are waiting for a statue to move.

A good many years ago a group of patriots in the American colonies threw off the dominion of the British king and formed a new government. The nation they established was so to speak, a monument or statue of the ideal of democracy. And ever since then Americans have been trying to make it live; to make it, not only a magnificent, beautiful emblem, but a living, breathing fact.

It hasn't been an easy task. To begin with, other nations didn't like this idea. This American statue was too much of a beacon to their own people. So they put all the obstacles they could think of in the way. But these obstacles failed of their purpose.

Then there were hindrances at home; mass ignorance, sectionalism, local jealousies, narrow-gauge politicians, financial oligarchies. All of these things, singly and jointly, kept the great figure of Democracy from springing into full life.

It has been a long wait and a hard battle. Now and then the statue has flamed into glorious activity, under the prodding of a Jackson or a Lincoln or a Roosevelt. And now and then, unfortunately, it has lapsed into placid immobility, unmoved by corruption in high places, frozen by the apathy and indifference of voters.

Yet we keep our faith, that some day, somehow, we will make it live. For the statue is, when you stop to think about it, rather fine. A great many young men have died for it. A great many earnest men and women have spent their lives to make it go. Innumerable hopes and aspirations are wrapped up in it. At times it has loomed high as a symbol for oppressed and discouraged people all over the world.

So we are waiting and hoping. Like Manuel, when the great day comes we will be ready—ready to follow the living, breathing emblem of democracy into a newer, finer day.

OUR GROWING AIRPLANE INDUSTRY

WHEN someone tells you, "Oh, the airplane will never be as popular as the automobile," don't be too ready to believe them. The airplane industry in this country is enjoying the best of health right now. In 1926 there were 67 airplane factories; at the close of 1927 there were 103. Every one was and is, working to capacity. More than 2300 airplanes were sold in this country last year—more than half of them to private individuals.

There are other indications. Eddie Rickenbacker, returning from a trip to the far west, reports that at Portland, Ore., an airplane school is selling planes "faster than a good auto dealer sells cars," and has 270 students in training. At Cleveland, O., 25,000 people went out to the airport on a spring Sunday, drawn by a desire to see airplanes and talk with flyers.

These are straws showing which way the wind blows. It looks as if aviation in America is on the eve of a perfectly amazing development.

SYNOPSIS

Because Jake, son of Cantor Rabinowitz, prefers jazz to synagogue music, he leaves home. Ten years elapse. Through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jake, now Jack Robin, becomes a musical comedy jazz singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, disowns him. Jack's show opens the Eve of Yom Kippur. Dillings, the backer of the show, fears of Mary's love for Jack, with draws his money, leaving Lee, the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill and Yudelsohn, his friend, begs Jack to sing in the synagogue that night. Torn between his desires Jack talks to Mary. Then his mother arrives at the theatre.

CHAPTER XVII—Continued
Finished, he ran off the stage and burst into the dressing room. He looked around wildly. There was no one there. He turned about helplessly, bewildered. A little group of people surged forward—Carter, Mary, Lee, Gene—all pulling at him, shaking his hand, thumping him on the back. "Marvelous! Simply great!" "You certainly can put over a song, Jack!" — "Congratulations, Mr. Robin, you were wonderful!" "Say, you won't need any press agent after tonight!"

A melody of sounds. Jack stared, unhearing, unseeing. "Get out for the next number!" Lee was pushing the crowd back, scattering them right and left. "That was wonderful, Jack," he turned for a moment to the singer. "Say, you actually cried. Do it that way tonight and you'll be a knock-out sure!" He hurried into the door. "All right, Gene. Ready for the next number," he called. Jack moved slowly towards a chair and sank into it. He wiped his white gloved hand across his eyes, leaving a streak of light flesh showing grotesquely across the black. He rested his elbows on his knees. His head sank; he buried his face in his cotton gloves.

CHAPTER XVIII
Mrs. Rabinowitz pushed open the door of the apartment and came slowly into the room, followed by Yudelsohn. Automatically she removed her shawl, folded it and put it away. Her legs barely supported her, but she started wearily towards the Cantor's room. The nurse appeared and held her finger to her lips.

"Sh-h-h," she cautioned. "The Cantor's asleep. You mustn't go in now. Why, you look terribly pale, Mrs. Rabinowitz." She took the older woman's arm and helped her to a chair. "There, now, sit down for a little while. The doctor left some medicine for you. I'll get it."

"No, I don't want none," Mrs. Rabinowitz obediently sat down, but she shook her head at the word medicine.

The nurse, however, was already stirring up a powder in a glass of water. She brought it over to her patient. "Now, suppose you drink this," she held out the glass, smiling. "It'll make you feel better."

"He wouldn't come home," Mrs. Rabinowitz shook her head. "My Jake wouldn't come home—"

"Now, now, he'll be home later," the nurse was simply trying to soothe her charge without knowing what she was talking about.

"No—no, he ain't coming. I tell you. He ain't coming."

The nurse looked at Yudelsohn perplexed. Yudelsohn nodded his head and came over beside the nurse.

"It's her son, Jake. He sings in a theatre. He ain't coming home to sing in the synagogue tonight," he explained.

"Oh," the nurse responded. "I see. Now, Mrs. Rabinowitz, please drink this. And then the doctor says you must lie down for a little while. After that you must have something to eat. You know you promised the Cantor you'd attend the services, and you must have something nourishing if you're going to fast tonight and tomorrow."

She held the glass to her patient's lips. "Yes, drink, drink," Yudelsohn urged.

Obediently Mrs. Rabinowitz swallowed the liquid. "Tell me the true, nurse. The Cantor, is he dying?" Mrs. Rabinowitz caught the nurse's hand and waited patiently for her answer.

"The doctor said," the nurse paused for a moment, "the doctor said that if we keep him very quiet he may pull through. Now suppose you let me help you to your room."

She lifted the older woman gently from her chair. "You can have a little sleep, too, and then when the Cantor wakes up I'll call you."

Mrs. Rabinowitz nodded drowsily, the opiate already beginning its work on her weakened system. She allowed herself to be led to her room and made comfortable on the bed.

Yudelsohn sat down and wrapped himself in thought. Once more he was faced with the proposition of getting someone to sing the "Kol Nidre." A worried frown appeared on his brow. Lipski, Clarence's cousin, was his last resort. He might as well walk over and talk to him, as there seemed no other prospect in view. He felt that he'd almost sing himself before he'd allow Levy to sing. As his thoughts turned to the "shamus" that gentleman knocked, opened the door and walked in.

"So! Mr. Yudelsohn! You're just the man I was wanting to see," he began, rubbing his hands.

"Nu, Mr. Levy, what could I do for you?" Yudelsohn queried coldly knowing well what was on his visitor's mind.

"I want I should get from you of official the order I should sing to night," Levy was enjoying his present position quite thoroughly.

"Oh, no; I couldn't give you yet," Yudelsohn returned determinedly.

"If you couldn't give me, who could?" "I could give you, but I couldn't give you yet," Yudelsohn was stalling for time now.

"What kind answer is this? It's nearly dark and you couldn't give me official the appointment yet. You ain't got nobody else," Levy spoke knowingly.

"I ain't seen I have order I haven't," Yudelsohn returned dogmatically. "I told you I couldn't give you yet. In half an hour I'll know."

"In half an hour it will be too late. I got to practice a little bit in advance with the choir, ain't I?" "In half an hour it'll be too late!" For thirty years you waited the Cantor should get sick, you can't wait another half hour!"

"Brother Yudelsohn, you are the chairman from the Executive Committee, no."

Brother Levy. I am the chairman from the Executive Committee. Make yourself a tsimmes from it."

"All right! Then you are the chairman from the Executive Committee. So I want I should ask you, who is the shamus of the Orchard Street Synagogue? Am I the shamus order ain't I the shamus?"

"Brother Levy—" Yudelsohn's remark was cut short. The two men stopped and stared open mouthed at the door. There, his hand on the knob, stood Jack. He closed the door quietly and entered the room. His face was drawn and pale, but there was an air of determination about him. "Jake!" Yudelsohn found his voice at last. "You come to sing?" He turned a belligerent eye on Levy.

"Yes, get me a praying shawl and see if you can find a plush skull cap like the Cantor's only a little smaller."

"Praying shawl and a skull cap! Jake is going to sing!" Yudelsohn was reveling in his escape from his worries and his victory over the shamus. "Levy, get a praying shawl and a skull cap, quick!"

"Where could I find—" Levy began bitterly.

"Are you the shamus order ain't you the shamus? For a shamus it ain't hard to find plenty shawls," he turned sarcastically on Levy.

"All right—all right," Levy moved scornfully towards the door. "He's going to sing! A kid from Broadway! What does he know from school? The committee is making a big mistake." He retreated, muttering imprecations to himself.

"Jake, I'm glad you come. I'll tell your mama," he knocked on the door of Mrs. Rabinowitz's room. "Mrs. Rabinowitz! Mrs. Rabinowitz!" he called. "Jake is here. He's going to sing!"

Jake was already turning to his father's door when the nurse appeared, disturbed by the sound of voices.

His head sank; he buried his face in his cotton gloves.

CHAPTER XVIII

Mrs. Rabinowitz pushed open the door of the apartment and came slowly into the room, followed by Yudelson. Automatically she removed her shawl, folded it and put it away. Her legs barely supported her, but she started wearily towards the Cantor's room. The nurse appeared and held her finger to her lips. "Sh-h-h!" she cautioned. "The Cantor's asleep. You mustn't go in now. Why, you look terribly pale, Mrs. Rabinowitz." She took the older woman's arm and helped her to a chair. "There, now, sit down for a little while. The doctor left some medicine for you. I'll get it."

"No; I don't want none," Mrs. Rabinowitz obediently sat down, but she shook her head at the word medicine.

The nurse, however, was already stirring up a powder in a glass of water. She brought it over to her patient. "Now, suppose you drink this." She held out the glass, smiling. "It'll make you feel better."

"He wouldn't come home," Mrs. Rabinowitz shook her head. "My Jakie wouldn't come home—"

"Now, now, he'll be home later," the nurse was simply trying to soothe her charge without knowing what she was talking about.

"No—no, he ain't coming, I tell you. He ain't coming."

The nurse looked at Yudelson perplexed. Yudelson nodded his head and came over beside the nurse.

"It's her son, Jakie. He sings in a theatre. He ain't coming home to sing in the Synagogue tonight," he explained.

"Oh," the nurse responded, "I see. Now, Mrs. Rabinowitz, please drink this. And then the doctor says you must lie down for a little while. After that you must have something to eat. You know you promised the Cantor you'd attend the services, and you must have something nourishing if you're going to fast tonight and tomorrow." She held the glass to her patient's lips.

"Yes, drink, drink," Yudelson urged. Obediently Mrs. Rabinowitz swallowed the liquid.

"Tell me the true, nurse. The Cantor, is he dying?" Mrs. Rabinowitz caught the nurse's hand and waited patiently for her answer.

"The doctor said," the nurse paused for a moment, "the doctor said that if we keep him very quiet he may pull through. Now suppose you let me help you to your room." She lifted the older woman gently from her chair. "You can have a little sleep, too, and then when the Cantor wakes up I'll call you."

Mrs. Rabinowitz nodded drowsily, the opiate already beginning its work on her weakened system. She allowed herself to be led to her room and made comfortable on the bed.

Yudelson sat down and wrapped himself in thought. Once more he was faced with the proposition of getting someone to sing the "Kol Nidre." A worried frown appeared on his brow. Lipski, Clarence's cousin, was his last resort. He might as well walk over and talk to him, as there seemed no other prospect in view. He felt that he'd almost sing himself before he'd allow Levy to sing. As his thoughts turned to the "shamus" that gentleman knocked, opened the door and walked in.

"So! Mr. Yudelson! You're just the man I was wanting to see," he began, rubbing his hands.

"Nu, Mr. Levy, what could I do for you?" Yudelson queried coldly knowing well what was on his visitor's mind.

"I want I should get from you of ficial the order I should sing to night," Levy was enjoying his present position quite thoroughly.

"Oh, no! I couldn't give you yet," Yudelson returned determinedly.

"If you couldn't give me, who could?"

"I could give you, but I couldn't give you yet," Yudelson was stalling for time now.

"What kind answer is this? It's nearly dark and you couldn't give me official the appointment yet. You ain't got nobody else," Levy spoke knowingly.

"I ain't saying I have order I haven't," Yudelson returned dogmatically. "I told you I couldn't give you yet. In half an hour I'll know."

"In half an hour it will be too late. I got to practice a little bit in advance with the shamus, ain't it?"

"For thirty years you waited the Cantor should get sick, you can't wait another half hour!"

"Brother Yudelson, you are the chairman from the Executive Committee, no."

"Brother Levy, I am the chairman from the Executive Committee. Make yourself a tismmes from it."

"All right! Then you are the chairman from the Executive Committee. So I want I should ask you, who is the shamus of the Orchard Street Synagogue? Am I the shamus oder ain't I the shamus?"

"Brother Levy—" Yudelson's remark was cut short. The two men stopped and stared open mouthed at the door. There, his hand on the knob, stood Jack. He closed the door quietly and entered the room. His face was drawn and pale, but there was an air of determination about him. "Jakie!" Yudelson found his voice at last. "You come to sing?" He turned a belligerent eye on Levy.

"Yes, get me a praying shawl and see if you can find a plush skull cap like the Cantor's only a little smaller."

"A praying shawl and a skull cap! Jakie is going to sing!" Yudelson was reveling in his escape from his worries and his victory over the shamus. "Levy, get a praying shawl and a skull cap, quick!"

"Where could I find—" Levy began bitterly.

"Are you the shamus oder ain't you the shamus? For a shamus it ain't hard to find plenty shaws," he turned sarcastically on Levy.

"All right—all right," Levy moved scornfully towards the door. "He's going to sing! A kid from Broadway! What does he know from School? The committee is making a big mistake—" He retreated, muttering imprecations to himself.

"Jakie, I'm glad you come. I'll tell your mama." He knocked on the door of Mrs. Rabinowitz's room. "Mrs. Rabinowitz! Mrs. Rabinowitz!" he called. "Jakie is here! He's going to sing!"

Jakie was already turning to his father's door when the nurse appeared, disturbed by the sound of voices.

WALSH PICKS YANKEES TO REPEAT IN AMERICAN

BALL EXPERT'S OPINION EARLY ONE, HOWEVER

He Admits It's Just "Paper Strength" and Before-Season Prediction.

I. N. S. Sports Editor
By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 6.—Having arrived at the age of discretion, by forced marches and in the face of congenial restraints, the writer today is rating the American League strictly according to early April prospects, as he sees them, five days in advance of the Major League openings. He will not take the usual flax in early October values, which constitute a declaration of how the clubs, if they wish to avoid one's instinctive displeasure, must finish six months hence. On request, however, he will gladly tell you just when the day after tomorrow will become the day before yesterday.

"Paper Strength"
In brief, he is not dealing in futures but only in "paper strength" of the present moment when the clubs are rated as follows:

1. New York Yankees.
2. Philadelphia Athletics.
3. Detroit Tigers.
4. Washington Senators.
5. Chicago White Sox.
6. Cleveland Indians.
7. St. Louis Browns.
8. Boston Red Sox.

The writer, of course, thinks the Yanks can win again or he would not have them at the top. Their present speed is somewhat less than nothing flat, meaning that they have been going approximately nowhere at a terrible rate. From the standpoint of psychology I think this will prove to be all for the best.

Yankee Outlook
The Yanks were due for a slump after their great record through the 1927 race and their four straight victories in the world series. No one can deny the fact that they are lucky to get the reaction now when it can't be used against them, and if they were over-confident at the outset, they must be duly chastened after loss in at random to all the ball clubs in the south, even unto the class A outfits.

I have confined by comment to the Yanks so far, because obviously, they are the key team of the situation. The others may come forward a bit but the Yanks will have to go back a lot to finish outside first money. It isn't good horse sense to figure that they will. The only real question they must answer is pitching and I think they will get just enough to ride on through. Hoyt and Penock should win thirty-five games between them. If they do—and the betting is 1-2, even and out that they will—the club will need only an average of seven victories each from Moore, Piggas, Coveleskie, Johnson, Thomas, Marty, Sheeley and Campbell to be reasonably certain of winning the pennant. The chances are that many of those mentioned will exceed the conservative estimate imposed against their names.

BASEBALL WEALTH

NEW YORK, April 6.—(INS)—Babe Ruth saved $70,000 in 1927 and Lou Gehrig made more on a month's barnstorming tour last fall than the Yankees paid him for the entire season. It is revealed in an article in the Current issue of Collier's Weekly.

Training Camp Briefs

By International News Service
NORFOLK, VA., April 6.—Unless the National League clubs prove far tougher than the American League opposition encountered by the New York Giants this spring, the McGraw men are likely to win the pennant in a cakewalk. The New Yorkers hung up their twelfth straight victory in beating the Washington Senators at Charlotte, N. C., yesterday, 4 to 0. Bill Walker, Southpaw recruit from Denver, held the Nats to two singles, and Bill Terry and Stanty Hogan hit home runs.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 6.—Manager Robins of the Brooklyn Dodgers was elated today by the batting of Jigger Stutz and Rube Bressler in Brooklyn's 15 to 2 victory over Atlanta yesterday. Stutz, whose weak hitting has kept him on the bench, got into the game as a pinch hitter and socked a home run. Bressler, who apparently has regained the slugging ability which featured his career with Cincinnati, got four hits. The Robins play Raleigh today.

Connie Mack, who once picked a pennant winning machine to pieces and scattered it to the four far corners of organized baseball, seems to have lost his predilection for sweeping changes.

This undoubtedly is Connie's year, and his Athletics, who have disappointed him so badly during the past two seasons, should make up for everything by beating out the Yankees and winning the American League pennant.

Yet Mr. McGuffin-buddy has made no sweeping changes in his team, nor does his 1928 line-up show radical changes from that of 1927. Tris Speaker has replaced Walter French in the outfield and Joe Hauser is back at first base. Otherwise, the Athletics, as they take the field and come to bat next week will be in the old familiar order.

Max Bishop still is the lead-off man. Never a strong hitter, but a good waiter, the little second baseman once more is entrusted by Mack with the job of getting on first.

Sammy Hale will be at his old post, the hot corner of the infield, and will once more bat second. After a bad slump at bat in 1926, Sam-

Results of last night's fights at the Athletic Club.

Sully Toles, Circleville, got the decision over a substitute, Kid Stanley of Columbus.

Frosty Diehl of Chillicothe, made his debut last night against Jack Shay O. S. U. and went to a draw with the college boy. Diehl shows promise of bigger things.

The semi-final was the best go of the evening. Kid Gaggio, of Zanesville, won over K. O. Brown by decision. These two boys really mixed it up and gave the fans a good show for the six rounds.

The main-go, ah, let us hesitate for a few moments of silent prayer. Sailor Marshall substituting for Johnny Dundee met a sad fate in the second round at the hands of Henry Cohen, of Columbus. He was knocked out. The blow that brought about the catastrophe was one of the "early garden variety." Penny unleashed a terrific blow that must of carried at least seven pounds back of it. Marshall was seen to fall to the canvas and the crowd left jeering and howling.

my hit .313 last season, and he and Connie both believe the Athletics' third baseman will do even better this year.

A change in the Athletics' line-up has been made to permit Tris Speaker, center fielder, to bat third, just ahead of Tyrus Raymond Cobb, right fielder, who once more is in the position of clean-up man in the batting order.

Al Simmons, now left fielder, hit .392 in 1927 and has been moved up to a time at bat just behind Cobb. This will give the Athletics a tremendous punch, comparable in fact to that imparted by the New York combination of Ruth, Gehrig and Meusel. If one compares the 1927 batting averages of the sextet, the Mackmen do not suffer by comparison, although the Yankee trio excels in slugging.

An average of the 1927 marks of Speaker, Cobb and Simmons is .359, compared with .356 for Ruth, Gehrig and Meusel.

Cochrane, the Athletics' catcher, who bats just behind Simmons, is no slouch with the willow, having hit .338 last season.

What Joe Hauser will do at bat is problematical, but Mack expects him to do fully as well as Jimmy Dykes did last year, and Jimmy hit .324. Then there is Joe Boley, the shortstop, who bats just ahead of the pitcher, where the weakest hitter usually is placed. Boley rapped out a mark of .311 in 1927, at that.

IN SOCIETY

MISS ALLISON DELAPLAINE, SOCIETY EDITOR

Bride-Elect Feted

The color scheme of pink and white was attractively used in decoration by Misses Anne and Mary Harcourt of East Fifth street, Chillicothe, when they entertained with a luncheon bridge Wednesday complimenting Miss Ruth Spetnagel, bride-elect.

Clever pink place cards assisted the guests in finding their places at a large table centered with a silver bowl of pink roses and four pink tapers in silver holders. The favors were dainty pink nut baskets.

Following the delicious luncheon, three tables of bridge were assembled and when the pleasant afternoon was concluded prizes were awarded Mrs. E. R. Aldrich and Miss Edna Clough and Miss Spetnagel received a lovely gift.

Miss Miriam Ruggles of Circleville was an out-of-town guest.

Pre-Nuptial Affair

Miss Ruth Spetnagel and her fiancé Mr. Allan Macbeth, were guests of honor at an unusually beautiful dinner party entertained Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Carruth at their home on Bell Hill, Chillicothe, Ohio.

An exquisite centerpiece was used on the two beautifully appointed tables at which the twenty-four guests found their places. The entire centers of the tables were massed with greenery and yellow jonquills, and sentinelled with yellow tapers in silver holders. Place cards were cunning dolls, gayly decked in green and yellow, and the favors were bouquets of lovely yellow roses. A dinner of unusually delicious courses was served.

The pleasure of the dinner hour was extended throughout the evening, during which five tables of bridge were in progress. At the close of the spirited game prizes were awarded Miss Anna Harcourt, Miss Marian Neff, Mr. Horace Graves and Mr. Earl Barnhart. Miss Spetnagel was also given an attractive gift.

Among the guests were Miss Miriam Ruggles of Circleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright of Columbus.

At C. A. C. Gym

The big dance to be held Saturday evening at the Circleville Athletic Club gym, Saturday evening, is especially for the college students who are home for the Easter vacation. The music will be provided by a seven piece orchestra. The Ramblers, and the dance will be conducted from 8:00 o'clock until 12:00, on the park plan. An atmosphere of informality will prevail, and every one is cordially invited to attend.

Program by Choir

A program of beautiful music was given Thursday evening by the combined choirs of St. Philip's Church of Circleville, and that of St. John's of Lancaster, at Lancaster. The Rev. Benjamin DeCamp took his choir of twenty trained voices to unite with St. John's of thirty voices. It was a very impressive chorus.

The program was as follows:

Organ Prelude by Mrs. George Bentley.
Choir Processional, "Onward Christian Soldiers," Sullivan.
Gloria Patri, Robinson.
Magnificat, R. H. Atkinson.
Nunc Dimittis, R. H. Atkinson.

Anthem, "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross" (from Mozart by Halpin).

Hymn, "O Sacred Head Surrounded," F. C. Maker.
Soprano Solo, "There is a Green Hill," Gounod; by Mrs. Rolland Heiskell.

Doxology, "Old Hundredth," Kneeling Hymn, "Sun Of My Soul," by Ritter.

Choir Recessional, "Christ Is Made The Sure Foundation," by Smart.

Organ Postlude.
The service opened promptly at seven-thirty with the choir processional.

To Enact Drama

A Religious Drama, "Saint Claudia," will be presented in the Methodist Church by Mrs. Harry Griners' class, assisted by some of the men of the Brotherhood and Epworth League, on Easter Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m., to which the public is most cordially invited.

This drama was awarded the first prize in the 1924 Religious Drama Contest held by the Drama League of America, and written by Marshall N. Gould. The play was first produced by the Pilgrim Players of Evanston, Ill., under the direction of Mrs. A. Starr Best, in the First Congregational Church there. The story goes, that when Jesus of Nazareth began his public ministry, Pontius Pilate had already been Roman governor of Judaea some twenty-five years. During that period, according to the tradition of the early Christian church, his wife, Claudia Procula, had made an intensive study of the literature and religion of Israel, particularly of the Messianic prophecy, and was greatly moved by it. Indeed it is written in the Gospel of Nicodemus, that she had become a proselyte to Judaism.

The Jews had interpreted the Messianic hope and prophecy in the form of Jewish world-empire. They awaited conquering king, who would humble the Roman eagles in the dust, and raise Israel to dominion over the surrounding nations. Hence, when the Christ came, preaching his kingdom which is not of this world but of the hearts of men, they were bitterly disappointed, and rejected him as an impostor and a blasphemer.

But Claudia, being a Roman, was not blinded by any provincialism. She heard of Jesus and his claims, and forthwith began to regard him in the light of prophecy. She was deeply touched by the reports which reached her of his beneficent works and teaching and, like, enough, at least, to reach the conviction that he was a righteous man; enough to dream strange and awful things, in which the man who had so impressed her, was a leading figure; enough to send a hasty message of warning to Pilate, which reinforced his own superstitious fears, and increased his desire to deal justly, in a very difficult situation, with an extraordinary prisoner.

Pilate, however, was the puppet of the emperor. He did not dare to range himself on the side of One who was now set up as over against Caesar. He did not dare to stir up a new and terrible rebellion, but chose rather to make a simple concession, which had come to assume the character of a politic, and even necessary compromise. In the end, to the despair of Claudia, he sent for water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person," and delivered Jesus over to be crucified.

According to Origin, Claudia Procula definitely embraced Christianity after the Crucifixion, and died a martyr to her faith.

The cast of characters is: Pontius Pilate, Roman Governor of Judaea—Leslie Pontius.
Claudia Procula, his wife—Mrs. Harry Griner.
Sergius, Chief Counselor—Prof. R. F. Cain.
Marcus, the Centurion—Ray Myers.
Mary Magdalene—Mrs. Paul Reid.
Beulah, Maiden to Claudia—Mrs. Elliott Critch.
Petronia, Maiden to Claudia—Mrs. Noel Fry.

Miriam's Child—Virginia Cartwright.

Lazarus—Herbert Hammell.
Shimeah—Willis Linton.
Elielzer—Foster Balce.
Bartimaeus—Elliott Barnhill.
Simon—Azel Laughlin.
A sextette composed of Mrs. Ray Reid, Mrs. Edwin Bach, Mrs. Edwin Grimm, Mrs. Jesse Dawson, Mrs. J. D. Bragg and Mrs. Christian Schwarz, will furnish the music.

Cigar Store Indian Joins Ford Museum

TIFFIN, O., April 6—(UP)—"Seneca John," alias the "Tiffin Tecumseh," 60-year-old member of the Perfecto tribe of Ohio has been sold to Henry Ford for $100.

The aged sycamore warrior weathered rain, wind and sunshine at his post outside a cigar store here for many years before his value to the world of art was realized by Ford, who bought the effigy as an addition to his museum of antiques at Dearborn, Michigan.

It seems that Ford had a wood Indian squaw who was well along in years and he wanted a mate for her. None of the available tobacco advertisements was old enough to make a fitting match.

Now, however, the match is made and John has attained a lasting position in the annals of American antiquities.

INQUIRE INTO LIVES OF 550 FOR OIL JURY

Officials Expect to Have Hard Time Picking Sinclair Jurors.

By GEORGE E. DURNO
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 6—Federal agents and private detectives today were completing an exhaustive inquiry into the private lives of the 550 men and women from among whom the jury will be selected to try Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate and sportsman, next Monday for criminal conspiracy to defraud the government of the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve.

This investigation had to do with the nature of employment of each of the veniremen and their families; their religious beliefs and fraternal affiliations; whether or not they own oil stock; their general reputations, and a score of other points.

The government's investigation is being conducted through inquiry of the employers of the jury panel.

The defense methods are not known, but it is understood the work is being done either by one of the many private detectives who serve local lawyers or by a credit agency.

Great care is being exercised by both sides. Sinclair already is under a six-months sentence for contempt of court as a result of hiring the Burns detective agency to shadow the jury and sat in the original conspiracy trial last month and Justice F. L. Siddons, of the District Supreme Court, has ruled that jury shadowing by either the government or the defense is illegal.

There will be great difficulty in picking twelve men and women for Monday's trial. As a result of last October's mistrial, it is common knowledge among the veniremen that this jury will be locked up for the duration of the trial, approximately a month. Most of them are expected to tell the court they have formed an opinion in the case which would disqualify them from sitting.

Paris Style Hints

By ALICE LANGELEIR
PARIS, April 6—(UNS)
Cotton has come back to the fashion world this spring and is making interesting frocks in all the new collections.

Marjorie Lou, an American who knows the needs of American women, combines with French ideas and workmanship in charming linen frocks for sports and summer country wear. They are very trim and smart, trimmed with bands or pipings of contrasting colors and skirts laid in flat box pleats in the front and plain bodices, with or without sleeves. They come in lovely pastel shades, as well as dark brown and navy-blue.

Cotton voile is also used for summer frocks and plain, white organdie trimmed with narrow bands of pink or blue is shown in crisp little party frocks for the sub-deb.

Suzanne Talbot is also using linen and pique. A skirt in white pique with stitched pleats and a sleeveless bodice of the same material is worn with a navy blue flannel reefer jacket, and there are several frocks in cadet blue linen. One is very attractive with collar and cuffs of white pique and a white moire belt. It is worn with a sleeveless jacket of navy-blue persey.

Another smart ensemble which will undoubtedly have great success at Deauville this summer consists of a long white linen coat covered with an all-over design in stitching, worn with a simple frock of blue linen with white sailor collar and cuffs. The deep sailor collar of white pique or linen is worn on both morning and afternoon frocks, and a wide flat Pierrot frill of white organdie is seen on several gowns in figured crepe de chine.

Marcel Rochas is making a specialty of linen frocks with a plain or pleated skirt and jumper blouse in one shade with encrustations in the form of bands of a jagged, modern art design on the bodice in another color, or in a darker shade of the same tone.

Gene Tunney having acquired a farm, here's guessing he conducts it scientifically and at a tidy profit.—Cincinnati, O., Times Star.

Presbyterian Boys' Cage Team Loses Hard One at Parish House.

By ELMER WILLIS
The Presbyterian boys were defeated Thursday evening by the Scoofers, 22 to 11, in a very fast game played on the St. Philip's Parish house floor. Evan Phillips played a good game of guarding while Loring Davis and "Dutch" Weffer showed some good playing by making most of their team's points. Richard Nickerson and James Sampson were the stars of the Presbyterians. "Billy" Steele also showed good form.

"RELIGION AND HOPE"

"Hope through the Cross"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." (John 3:16).

Read: Isaiah 53.

MEDITATION: This is Good Friday. We hold before us the cross. The symbol of death has become to us the symbol of life and hope. It brings us the assurance of divine help in our extremity.

A traveller in the mountains of Albania speaks of an overhanging wayside cross which tells travellers "of the help of God for weary men." The cross stands for the central fact of religion, the suffering good will of God for the poorest and meanest of mortals. The crucifixion of Jesus has become hope for us all. In His death we have found courage and salvation. The cross marks the way that leads to victory.

"O Cross that liftest up my head,

"I dare not ask to fly from Thee;

"I lay in dust life's glory dead,

"And from the ground there blossoms red

"Life that shall endless be."

PRAYER: Almighty Father, we would know the beauty of that life and death which this day commemorates. May the spirit which led our Saviour to the cross descend upon us now and fill our hearts with love of God and man. Amen.

Vast Open Spaces Filmed For Zane Grey Story

Zane Grey knows the West. Often in the past, he has proved himself a master of the yarns of the vast, open spaces as written for motion pictures.

Once again, this prolific author reveals his talents, this time in a new type of story which has been made into a Paramount film production, "Under the Tonto Rim."

"Under the Tonto Rim" comes to the Metropolitan theater today and presents many fine characteristics, according to all reports.

First of all, an able cast was selected to personate the various characters in the tale, the company being headed by Richard Arlen and Mary Brian and supported by Jack Liden, Harry T. Morey, Bruce Gordon and many others.

Secondly, attractive photography is featured throughout, this feature of the picture being more interesting and entertaining than many another outdoor story that has been screened of late.

Lastly, Grey's story is a virile one, with a plot that will fill the demands of the motion picture

WALSH PICKS YANKEES TO REPEAT IN AMERICAN

BALL EXPERT'S OPINION EARLY ONE, HOWEVER

He Admits It's Just "Paper Strength" and Before-Season Prediction.

I. N. S. Sports Editor
By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 6—Having arrived at the age of discretion, by forced marches and in the face of congenial restraints, the writer today is rating the American League strictly according to early April prospects, as he sees them, five days in advance of the Major League openings. He will not take the usual flur in early October values, which constitute a declaration of how the clubs, if they wish to avoid one's instinctive displeasure, must finish six months hence. On request, however, he will gladly tell you just when the day after tomorrow will become the day before yesterday.

"Paper Strength"
In brief, he is not dealing in futures but only in "paper strength" of the present moment when the clubs are rated as follows:

1. New York Yankees.
2. Philadelphia Athletics.
3. Detroit Tigers.
4. Washington Senators.
5. Chicago White Sox.
6. Cleveland Indians.
7. St. Louis Browns.
8. Boston Red Sox.

The writer, of course, thinks the Yanks can win again or he would not have them at the top. Their present speed is somewhat less than nothing flat, meaning that they have been going approximately nowhere at a terrible rate. From the standpoint of psychology I think this will prove to be all for the best.

Yankee Outlook

The Yanks were due for a slump after their great record through the 1927 race and their four straight victories in the world series. No one can deny the fact that they are lucky to get the reaction now when it can't be used against them, and, if they were over-confident at the outset, they must be duly chastened after loss in at random to all the ball clubs in the south, even unto the class 'A' outfits.

I have confined by comment to the Yanks so far, because obviously, they are the key team of the situation. The others may come forward a bit but the Yanks will have to go back a lot to finish outside first money. It isn't good horse sense to figure that they will. The only real question they must answer is pitching and I think they will get just enough to ride on through. Hoyt and Penock should win thirty-five games between them. If they do—and the betting is 1-2, even and out

DOPING OUT THE PENNANT CHASE

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

Connie Mack, who once picked a pennant winning machine to pieces and scattered it to the four far corners of organized baseball, seems to have lost his predilection for sweeping changes.

This undoubtedly is Connie's year, and his Athletics, who have disappointed him so badly during the past two seasons, should make up for everything by beating out the Yankees and winning the American League pennant.

Yet Mr. McGillicuddy has made no sweeping changes in his team, nor does his 1928 line-up show radical changes from that of 1927. Tris Speaker has replaced Walter French in the outfield and Joe Hauser is back at first base. Otherwise, the Athletics, as they take the field and come to bat next week will be in the old familiar order.

Max Bishop still is the lead-off man. Never a strong hitter, but fast and a good waiter, the little second baseman once more is entrusted by Mack with the job of getting on first.

Sammy Hale will be at his old post, the hot corner of the infield, and will once more beat second. After a bad slump at bat in 1926, Sammy hit .313 last season, and he and Connie both believe the Athletics' third baseman will do even better this year.

A change in the Athletics' line-up has been made to permit Tris Speaker, center fielder, to bat third, just ahead of Tyrus Raymond Cobb, right fielder, who once more is in the position of clean-up man in the batting order.

Al Simmons, now left fielder, hit .392 in 1927 and has been moved up to a time at bat just behind Cobb. This will give the Athletics a tremendous punch, comparable in fact to that imparted by the New York combination of Ruth, Gehrig and Meusel. If one compares the 1927 batting averages of the sextet, the Mackmen do not suffer by comparison, although the Yankee trio excels in slugging.

An average of the 1927 marks of Speaker, Cobb and Simmons is .359, compared with .356 for Ruth, Gehrig and Meusel.

Cochrane, the Athletics' catcher, who bats just behind Simmons, is no slouch with the willow, having hit .338 last season.

What Joe Hauser will do at bat is problematical, but Mack expects him to do fully as well as Jimmy Dykes did last year, and Jimmy hit .324. Then there is Joe Boley, the shortstop, who bats just ahead of the pitcher, where the weakest hitter usually is placed. Boley rapped out a mark of .311 in 1927, at that.

SAILOR BADLY OUTCLASSED IN MAIN FIGHT GO

Substitutes For Johnny Dundee and Kisses Canvas in Second Round.

By "ART" PHILLIPS
Results of last night's fights at the Athletic club.

Salty Toles, Circleville, got the decision over a substitute, Kid Stanley of Columbus.

Frosty Diehl of Chillicothe, made his debut last night against Jack Shay O. S. U., and went to a draw with the college boy. Diehl shows promise of bigger things.

The semi-final was the best of the evening. Kid Gaggero, of Zanesville, won over K. O. Brown by decision. These two boys really mixed it up and gave the fans a good show for the six rounds.

The main-go, ah, let us hesitate for a few moments of silent prayer. Sailor Marshall substituting for Johnny Dundee met a sad fate in the second round at the hands of Benny Cohen, of Columbus. He was knocked out. The blow that brought about the catastrophe was one of the "early garden variety." Benny unleashed a terrific blow that must of carried at least seven pounds back of it. Marshall was seen to fall to the canvas and the crowd left jeering and hooting.

BASEBALL WEALTH

NEW YORK, April 6—(INS)—Babe Ruth saved $70,000 in 1927 and Lou Gehrig made more on a month's barnstorming tour last fall than the Yankees paid him for the entire season, it is revealed in an article in the Current issue of Collier's Weekly.

Training Camp Briefs

By International News Service
NORFOLK, VA., April 6—Unless the National League clubs prove far tougher than the American League opposition encountered by the New York Giants this spring, the McGraw men are likely to win the pennant in a cakewalk. The New Yorkers hung up their twelfth straight victory in beating the Washington Senators at Charlotte, N. C., yesterday, 4 to 0. Bill Walker, Southpaw recruit from Denver, held the Nats to two singles, and Bill Terry and Stanty Hogan hit home runs.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 6—Manager Robins of the Brooklyn Dodgers was elated today by the batting of Jigger Statz and Rube Bressler in Brooklyn's 15 to 2 victory over Atlanta yesterday. Statz, whose weak hitting has kept him on the bench, got into the game as a pinch hitter and socked a home run. Bressler, who apparently has regained the slugging ability which featured his career with Cincinnati, got four hits. The Robins play Raleigh today.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 6—The New York Yankees were all set to slaughter the local team here today. The world's champions finally hit their stride against Knoxville yesterday, swamping the Sally Leaguers 14 to 4. Leo Durocher, St. Paul Rookie, clouted a triple and a homer and Babe Ruth hit a single a double and a triple.

PASTOR BRINGS EASTER IDEALS TO ROTARIANS

It Means Rest to Your Soul, The Rev. W. S. Hiles Tells Clubmen.

The message of Easter was brought to Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in the Boggs Hotel, Thursday noon, by the Rev. W. S. Hiles, pastor of the United Brethren church here, with the clubmen observing "Holy Week."

While Easter brings a message of life it has one of death also, the pastor said.

"We do not want to die," he said. "We shrink from it. But death is a great reality. Easter brings thoughts of the resurrection of Christ and proof of the fact that man lives after death. Easter is a monument to a great Divine event."

Jesus, he said, is more than a historical character. He is living now.

Cemetery Has Message
Easter brings to us the knowledge that the cemetery is a message of hope and cheer; Easter means a living Savior.

His talk was intermingled with several timely readings of poems and thoughts.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Harry Stevenson.

Prior to his talk President Clark Will and Secretary John Goeller Jr. were selected as the two delegates, and Rotarians Frank E. Barnhill and Wilson Cellar as alternates to the district conference of Rotarian clubs to be held at Ironton, April 19 and 20.

To Attend Conference
Those who will attend the conference from the Circleville club are: Mr. and Mrs. Clark Will, John Goeller, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Barnhill, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Cellar, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Spangler, the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier and wife, and Harley Colwell.

Others who are desirous of attending are urged to get in touch with the secretary, John Goeller Jr., at once.

NURSERYMAN IS STRICKEN HERE

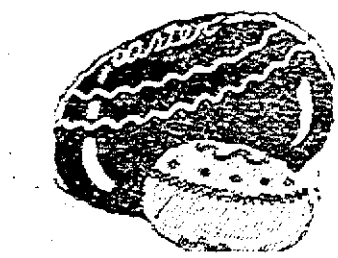

Creighton R. Elsea, died at the home of his son, Rev. Samuel C. Elsea, on the Columbus pike just north of the corporation line Thursday evening at 5 o'clock.

His death was due to complications. He was born in Iowa, Jan. 12, 1844, the son of George and Louise Peters Elsea. He married Miss Caroline Hinkley at Lithopolis, Dec. 3, 1869. His wife, two sons and one daughter, are living. They are Robert C. Elsea of Columbus; Mrs. Grace Barnhart of Lithopolis and Rev. S. C. Elsea, of this city. One daughter, Mrs. Mary Cossett, died at Lithopolis some years ago.

Of his immediate family two brothers survive. They are Samuel Elsea, of Kalida, O., and George Elsea, of Lithopolis.

The deceased was a nurseryman by occupation. The funeral services will be held at Lithopolis at the Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. W. S. Fisher will officiate. Interment will be in Lithopolis cemetery. Mader and Ebert will have charge of the funeral.

Madge Offers Her Assistance to Princess Olinia.

I SAILED down indulgently at Princess Olinia of Transylvania when she asked me if I felt it my duty to do to her mother of her whereabouts.

"Of course not," I said. "I am not your guardian, and have not the slightest responsibility for your actions. If your mother had no knowledge of your safety, I might feel the duty of one mother to another to relieve her anxiety, but you said—"

"She has the assurance in my own handwriting that I am safe and well," the Princess interrupted.

"Then the rest of the situation between you and your family is strictly your own affair, and neither I nor anyone else will meddle with it," I assured her. "But there is something in which I feel I ought to meddle as a neighbor and friend."

"Her eyes widened with sudden fear."

"What do you mean?" she asked.

"I put my hand over hers."

the farmhouse when I was sure she meant to give me. But the next second her body quivering, she closed into a thin but line, and she shook her head, while an appeal for my forbearance came into her big, dark eyes. I pressed her hand reassuringly, and forced a nonchalant smile to my lips for I saw that some hidden compulsion was on her which I must use adroitness in fathoming. Nothing could be gained by pressing her.

"Just as you say, my dear," I told her, vision from my chair. "But please remember that I am at your service at any hour of the day or night, whether you wish to give me your confidence or not."

"Oh! I want to so much," she exclaimed, "but I cannot—must not—yet."

"Whenever you wish to see me, have Mrs. Ticer telephone me, and I will come right over," I told her. "But before I go I want to make sure of one thing. What precaution have you here against burglars or other marauders? You are reputed to be wealthy, you know, and that is always a temptation to thieves. Who is in the house at night? Have you bars on the lower windows?"

"No, there are no bars," she said, "but there are good locks on all the doors and windows. Henry sees to the locking-up every night, and now that Anna is so ill, Jerry Ticer is to sleep here at night, so that I have a messenger handy."

Upon my lips trembled the comment that Mrs. Ticer would be a far better protector than either her husband or her son, neither of whom was noted for his valor, but I did not utter it. Instead I glanced at the big window of her room, at the side of which a thick wisteria vine climbed up to a secure anchorage on the roof.

"I don't want to frighten you," I said uneasily, "but I wish you had bars on this window, at least."

"I'll have them put on tomorrow," she said, "and on every other window which could be entered. (Until then, and afterward also, I have something better than bars.)"

She gave a low whistle, there was a swift rush outside the open door and the next instant Fodor, her beautiful wolfhound bounded into the room, and coming to the side of the bed, stood poised, alertly looking from his mistress to me. I had the uncomfortable feeling that the powerful animal only needed his young mistress' word to spring at my throat.

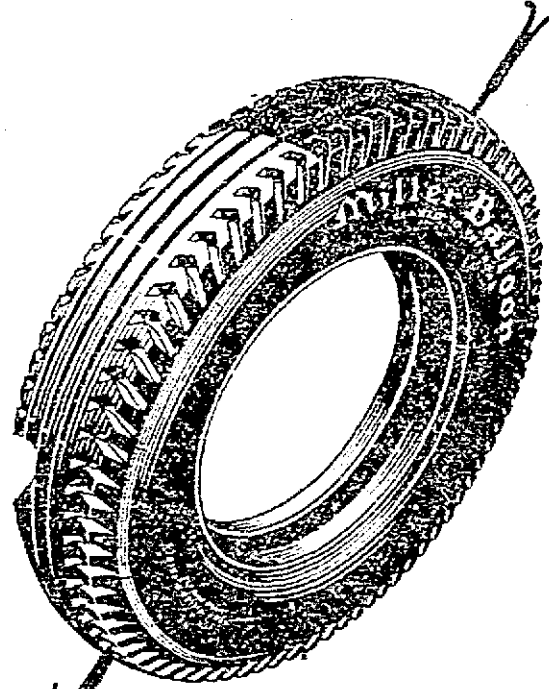

"You see," she said proudly, "I need no other protector than Fodor. He would tear to pieces anyone who put his hand on me."

UTILITIES OF PICKAWAY PAY GREATER TAX

Total County Tax Duplicate Is Increased By Over Four Millions.

(Special to The Herald)

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—While individual property and real estate will pay taxes this year in Pickaway county on a valuation smaller than the year before, banks, corporations and public utilities, serving citizens with electric light and power, gas, communication and transportation, will pay taxes on an increased valuation. This is revealed in figures just announced by the state tax commission.

The total county duplicate this year is increased by $4,091,905.

The utility companies will pay on an increase of $4,314,340.

Business corporations are increased by $93,430.

Individual property is reduced by $241,060.

Real estate is decreased by $75,555.

Banks are increased by $750.

The utility companies will pay taxes on a valuation greater than that of banks, all individual property and business corporations, combined.

Analyzing these figures, the Ohio Committee on Public Utility Information points out that taxes of public service companies must be reflected in rates charged consumers for service, inasmuch as these companies have no other means of revenue.

Here is a table showing the 1927 valuations, upon which taxes will be paid this year, and the 1926 valuations, upon which taxes were paid last year:

	1926	1927
Public util.	$ 9,368,460	13,682,800
Real Est.	39,605,500	39,529,945
Banks	1,002,510	1,003,260
Corp.	472,800	566,030
Indiv.	9,744,010	9,502,950

Totals. $60,193,080 $64,284,935
The average tax rate for the county this year will be $15.644, per thousand dollar valuation. Last year it was $15.594.

GANG RULE IN CHICAGO CAUSE OF MURDERING

Over 100 Deaths in 16 Months
Is Toll of Lack of Law Enforcement.

CHICAGO, April 6.—(INS)—Leadership of men, the command of big business, calls for the highest qualities of mind and heart. Johnny Torrio had elements of greatness—did he not show adaptability, alertness to opportunity, and great business acumen when he seized upon prohibition as the ladder by which a little local gambling and vice syndicate was to climb to a business of $75,000,000 a year? But he had his failings. For one thing, he was not sufficiently observant to mark the growing intimacy between Jack Cusick, financial officer of the syndicate and his chief executive officer, and Al Capone, who shared with Dion O'Bannon equal rank as, so to speak, vice presidents.

For another thing, he was a man little mean of spirit. He was niggardly, surly. Many a humble worker in the ranks came to him with his trouble, only to be turned away, hurt and angry. Capone, on the other hand, always made friends. He would help—his hand was always in his pocket for the distressed retainer. Yes, he thought the chief might have gone to the front for the man—but he shouldn't get sore, after all the chief had a lot on his mind, probably. Anyway the loyal worker could always count on him, Al. And it was all in the family wasn't it?

Capone Made Friends
So Capone made friends, loyal friends, who would do a good turn for him any time.

Joe Howard, minor gangster, talked out of turn. A few days later he was shot down near the "Four Deuces." Just before the the guns barked, a witness heard him shout, unsuspecting, "Hello, Al!"

Capone was questioned, too, when "Dutch" Bucner and "Georgia" Meegan, members of the Spike O'Donnell gang fell to their death before the roar of sawed-off shotguns. Nothing came of that either.

When "Two Gun," Johnny Dougherty's body was picked up from a desolate road on the outskirts of the city Capone again faced inquisitors. But by this time, under the able tutelage of Jackie Cusick he was adroit in facing questionnaires successfully, and was released by the police.

Years Bring Change
In fact Capone, today, stands convicted of not one crime.

Years had brought about a change. No longer was Capone the flashy dresser, the gangland "sheik" of yesterday. He was now the suave business man dressed in conservative fashion. He is today.

Murder followed murder. More than 100 men were killed in sixteen months. McSwiggan fell in front of a west side saloon. Jimmy Dougherty, "Red" Duffy and others were picked off by the deadly weapons of gangland. Their slayers are unknown to police.

Capone prospered. So did Cusick. So did Torrio—for a time. But one day as Torrio stepped from the doorway of his home, there was a roar of machine guns and Torrio fell. He wasn't dead, however.

For weeks the gangster chief lay in a hospital, slowly creeping back from the death to which he had been sentenced. He finally walked straight from the hospital to the federal building. He had thought things over and knew when to quiet—something few gangsters ever have learned. His attorneys bargained with the federal prosecutors a federal "rap" for nine months in the Waukegan, Ill., county jail.

Before he left, however, he took Capone by the hand, introduced him to the necessary persons and instructed them to accept Capone as chief until Torrio came back.

When Torrio's nine months were up he approached Capone and asked for the reins of government back.

Torrio Banished
Capone laughed. So did Cusick. "You're through, Torrio. 'You've

Beginning at a manhole in the center of Union and Clinton Streets of said city; thence in the center line of Union Street and in an easterly direction to the center of Abernethy Avenue being a distance of approximately 525 feet.

And said plans are filed in the office of the Clerk for examination and inspection by parties interested.

FRIED NICHOLAS,
Clerk of Council.

got about 24 hours. Beat it," Torrio "got." Like a ghost he flitted. From that day to this, "Scarface Al" Capone has ruled the Chicago underworld.

"Scarface Al" Capone, after ascending to power in the Chicago badlands, ruled with an iron hand which was soon felt by the many little "independents" who sought to oust him from power.

In a few years directly or indirectly, he disposed of such luminaries as "Polack Joe" Saltis, south side beer baron; Frank McErlend, tried for murder in Indiana; Dion O'Bannon, former muscleman for the north side mob; Vincent "Schemer" Drucci; Hymie Weiss; Big George Moran and others. Only Spike O'Donnell is alive today—but very much out of sight. There were others—lone wolves, heads of minor groups. The coroner was kept busy.

Capone and Cusick went on.

An Investment Located on Fountain Square, Cincinnati To Net 7% Free of Taxes in Ohio

We are offering at $100 per share net the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock of the FOUNTAIN SQUARE BUILDING, INC., owning and operating the FOUNTAIN SQUARE BUILDING, a magnificent, new, fireproof, seventeen-story store and office building now nearing completion on FOUNTAIN SQUARE at the Northwest corner of FIFTH AND WALNUT STREETS, CINCINNATI. This corner is the most prominent and desirable corner in the City of Cincinnati and is one of the finest locations in the United States. The ground on which this building is being erected is held under a ninety-nine year lease, renewable forever, with privilege of purchase after 1930 at $500,000. This plot of ground was recently appraised at $763,000 exclusive of the present improvement. There are no bonds ahead of this issue of $600,000 preferred stock, nor is any issue contemplated, nor can any bonds or other obligations be issued by the Company having priority over this preferred stock without the consent of 75% of the preferred stock. The present and future value of the land represents quite a large equity over and above the privilege of purchase price, for the preferred stockholders. Dividends on this issue of preferred stock during the erection of the building, have been provided for through the net income of the Building Company and by the owners of the common stock.

We will be glad to tell you more about this very attractive issue

PASTOR BRINGS EASTER IDEALS TO ROTARIANS

It Means Rest to Your Soul,
The Rev. W. S. Hiles
Tells Clubmen.

The message of Easter was brought to Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in the Boggs Hotel, Thursday noon, by the Rev. W. S. Hiles, pastor of the United Brethren church here, with the clubmen observing "Holy Week."

While Easter brings a message of life it has one of death also, the pastor said.

"We do not want to die," he said. "We shrink from it. But death is a great reality. Easter brings thoughts of the resurrection of Christ and proof of the fact that man lives after death. Easter is a monument to a great divine event."

Jesus, he said, is more than a historical character. He is living now.

Cemetery Has Message
Easter brings to us the knowledge that the cemetery is a message of hope and cheer; Easter means a living Savior.

His talk was intermingled with several timely readings of poems and thoughts.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Harry Stevenson.

Prior to his talk President Clark Will and Secretary John Goeller Jr., were selected as the two delegates, and Rotarians Frank E. Barnhill and Wilson Cellar as alternates to the district conference of Rotarian clubs to be held at Ironton, April 19 and 20.

To Attend Conference

Those who will attend the conference from the Circleville club are: Mr. and Mrs. Clark Will, John Goeller, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Barnhill, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Cellar, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Spangler, the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier and wife, and Harley Colwell.

Others who are desirous of attending are urged to get in touch with the secretary, John Goeller Jr., at once.

NURSERYMAN IS STRICKEN HERE

Creighton R. Elsea, died at the home of his son, Rev. Samuel C. Elsea on the Columbus pike just north of the corporation line Thursday evening at 5 o'clock.

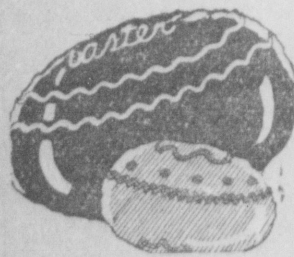

His death was due to complications. He was born in Iowa, Jan. 12, 1844, the son of George and Louise Peters Elsea. He married Miss Caroline Hinkley at Lithopolis, Dec. 3, 1869. His wife, two sons and one daughter, are living. They are Robert C. Elsea of Columbus; Mrs. Grace Barnhart of Lithopolis and Rev. S. C. Elsea, of this city. One daughter, Mrs. Mary Cossett, died at Lithopolis some years ago.

Of his immediate family two brothers survive. They are Samuel Elsea, of Kalida, O., and George Elsea, of Lithopolis.

The deceased was a nurseryman by occupation.

The funeral services will be held at Lithopolis at the Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. W. S. Fisher will officiate. Interment will be in Lithopolis cemetery. Mader and Elbert will have charge of the funeral.

Love's Embers Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Madge Offers Her Assistance to Princess Olina.

I SMILED down indulgently at Princess Olina of Transvania when she asked me if I felt it my duty to write to her mother of her whereabouts.

"Of course not," I said. "I am not your guardian, and have not the slightest responsibility for your actions. If your mother had no knowledge of your safety, I might feel the duty of one mother to another to relieve her anxiety, but you said—"

"She has the assurance in my own handwriting that I am safe and well," the princess interrupted.

"Then the rest of the situation between you and your family is strictly your own affair, and neither I nor anyone else will meddle with it," I assured her. "But there is something in which I feel I ought to interfere as a neighbor and friend."

Her eyes widened with sudden fear.

"What do you mean?" she asked. "I put my hand over hers."

"It does not take very keen eyes, my child," I said slowly, "to see that you are frightened over something which you are keeping to yourself. Indeed you have just spoken of something which is troubling you. Can you not tell me of it? Is there any danger threatening you?"

Her lips parted, trembling on the verge of speech, and I waited tensely for the explanation of the mystery of her eyes.

While the faxes will still be smart this Spring, the newer furs will be sables, martens, kolnskies and other small pelts. Two to four skins are used for these graceful scarves.

You will find that the new Spring evening coats are distinguished by the following details: either the scarf collar or none whatever, applique of self material, fabrics contrasting the light with the heavier weights, and sometimes fur trimmings.

The irregular hemline has now passed from the evening to the daytime frocks, and from the daytime frocks to coats and capes. An interesting cape model consists of a full-length cape, with the irregularity of hem achieved by panels at each side, which are longer than the body of the wrap.

The harp is generally accepted as heaven's musical instrument, so we are still grateful that the uke and sax are not permitted in the choir up there. — Zanesville, O., Signal.

the farmhouse when I was sure she meant to give me. But the next second her lovely quivering lips closed into a thin tight line, and she shook her head, while an appeal for my forbearance came into her big pansy eyes. I pressed her hand reassuringly, and forced a nonchalant smile to my lips for I saw that some hidden compulsion was on her which I must use adroitness in fathoming. Nothing could be gained by pressing her.

"Just as you say, my dear," I told her, rising from my chair. "But please remember that I am at your service at any hour of the day or night, whether you wish to give me your confidence or not."

"Oh! I want to so much," she exclaimed, "but I cannot—must not—yet."

Whenever you wish to see me, have Mrs. Ticer telephone me, and I will come right over," I told her, "but before I go I want to make sure of one thing. What precaution have you here against burglars or other marauders? You are reputed to be wealthy, you know, and that is always a temptation to thieves. Who is in the house at night? Have you bars on the lower windows?"

"No, there are no bars," she said, "but there are good locks on all the doors and windows. Henry sees to the locking-up every night, and now that Anna is so ill, Jerry Ticer is to sleep here at night, so that I have a messenger handy."

Upon my lips trembled the comment that Mrs. Ticer would be a far better protector than either her husband or her son, neither of whom was noted for his valor, but I did not utter it. Instead I glanced at the big window of her room, at the side of which a thick wistaria vine climbed up to a secure anchorage on the roof.

"I don't want to frighten you," I said uneasily, "but I wish you had bars on this window, at least."

"I'll have them put on tomorrow," she said, "and on every other window which could be entered. 'Until then, and afterward also, I have something better than bars."

She gave a low whistle, there was a swift rush outside the open door and the next instant Feder, her beautiful wolf-hound bounded into the room, and coming to the side of the bed, stood poised alertly looking from his mistress to me. I had the uncomfortable feeling that the powerful animal only needed his young mistress' word to spring at my throat.

"You see!" she said proudly. "I need no other protector than Feder. He would tear to pieces anyone who put his hand on me."

UTILITIES OF PICKAWAY PAY GREATER TAX

Total County Tax Duplicate Is Increased By Over Four Millions.

(Special to The Herald)

COLUMBUS, O., April 6—While individual property and real estate will pay taxes this year in Pickaway county on a valuation smaller than the year before, banks, corporations and public utilities, serving citizens with electric light and power, gas, communication and transportation, will pay taxes on an increased valuation. This is revealed in figures just announced by the state tax commission.

The total county duplicate this year is increased by $4,091,905.

The utility companies will pay on an increase of $4,314,340.

Business corporations are increased by $93,430.

Individual property is reduced by $241,060.

Real estate is decreased by $75,555.

Banks are increased by $750.

The utility companies will pay taxes on a valuation greater than that of banks, all individual property and business corporations, combined.

Analyzing these figures, the Ohio Committee on Public Utility information points out that taxes of public service companies must be reflected in rates charged consumers for service, inasmuch as these companies have no other means of revenue.

Here is a table showing the 1927 valuations, upon which taxes will be paid this year, and the 1926 valuations, upon which taxes were paid last year:

	1926	1927
Public util.	$ 9,368,460	$13,682,800
Real Est.	29,605,500	39,529,945
Banks	1,002,510	1,003,260
Corp.	472,600	566,030
Indiv.	9,744,010	9,502,950

Totals, $60,193,080 $64,284,935
The average tax rate for the county this year will be $15.644 per thousand dollar valuation. Last year it was $15.594.
